The Gap of Dunloe is a wild and rugged gorge dividing the Tomies Mountain from the Macgillicuddy Reeks. At the entrance to this picturesque valley are almost perpendicular rocks, giving it a most majestic appearance. A small stream traverses the valley, opening out in several places into lakes; the picture shows the Serpent Lake, and one of the two bridges that cross the stream.

Have you any 1905 Lewis & Clark Exposition cards that you would sell, or would trade for other cards that you collect? I can give generous trade as I am special-izing in the L&C Expo. List what you have and what you are looking for, and let me make you an offer.
